

CHRISTMAS GIFTS!

For your Sweethearts and your Wives, also for your Children—even the school children have not been forgotten. We have made arrangements with SANTA CLAUS to have headquarters with us. Let everybody come for Christmas Presents, as we have just returned fresh from the market and are stocked FULL UP.

A PROPOSITION—TO OUR CUSTOMERS: On all cash bills bought from us between now and NEW YEARS day we will give a discount of 10 PER CENT. on regular prices. This is our Holiday offer. On OVERCOATS we have had a heavy trade, and have been compelled to re-order. In these orders we have met some drives, and can give our customers the benefit of them. Also in Ladies Cloaks we defy competition, as we have made this trade a Specialty. In Dress Goods, Trimmings, and Notions for Ladies wear, we are just ready for Christmas, having on hand FINE and FASHIONABLE Goods. We have purchased the entire line of Samples of a large wholesale house of Dry Goods, Notions, &c., out of which you can get EXTRA and at the same time legitimate bargains. ATTENTION is called to our heavy stock of heavy Boots, Shoes, &c. that we are now determined to close out. Come and fit up for the HARD WINTER which is to come. Our Bull Dog "Britches" are warranted to stand any Christmas hunts. In every line we are prepared to give satisfaction in Goods and prices.

Now, FRIENDS, we mean business—strictly legitimate business. We have offered nothing that we cannot fulfill honestly and in good faith. Your liberal patronage enables us to give you these SPECIAL HOLIDAY OFFERS. Come to see us—don't fail. With a Happy Christmas to you, we remain,

Respectfully,

HOCKER & CO., Beaver Dam.

THE PRINTING OFFICE VISITOR.

It was the day of the paper's issue, And copies were stacked on high, And every one was busy, Where they'd be sent or what we meant.

She swept into safety, With a safety-hair net on her head, And they pointed her out—the devil! She was a woman of the world, A whisper to her companion, "He's a devil whatever he is!"

She picked up one of the papers, And read it through, And exchanged it for several others. Whiled she waited, seemed so fatigued, And while she looked at herself.

The last tone of the orchestra— Fifteen beers!"

An educated ballot is certainly not the "ball-wark" of our Republic at present.

Wax the Louisville and Nada railway road was built, Daville refused to give a small donation in order to get the road. The road was located four miles from Daville, and now that town is willing to give the L. & N. almost anything to build them a four-mile branch. "What feels these mortals be," and how much we learn by experience!

CHRISTMAS

Christmas has come and gone, burdened with its presents, yet we wish, its joys, its sadness, and all other incidents that attend our observation of the birthday of our Christ.

This day gives us a pleasant remembrance of our associations with the assimilated turkeys, the young ones, and the old, the sold and the un-sold, the healthy and the dyspeptic.

From our falloos we surely met the field and swear we will never again claim that we were not to do the Quaker Journal, in reviewing this question, says—

"The operations of this experiment are now justified in the predictions made of the creation of a wide-spread network of friends."

"It does not stop me, however, in my desire to do the best I can for my countrymen."

"I have learned that the small dealer does not stop short of his duty, and the great dunces, forgetting in our entirety that our appetites will soon return with all their old time vitality. We spit out our last渣 of tobacco, taste our last drop, and dash our last dead snipe to the ground in frantic resolution, and otherwise scatter the memories of a general sweep-over, and all the while a little wheel-chair is softly whispering to us that we have plenty of time to swear again before the year is out."

"The purpose of the Interstate Commerce law is to furnish a market for all the small dealers."

"Affairs are made plain to the average man on the farm and in the town, the increase in our bandit from great inland muggles like Dickey, Price, and others."

"The press is plain sailing. The evils of which it is combating are clearly defined, and the public is fully informed of all the facts. So far as we go, all we don't have to do is to make them believe in this direction."

"The amazons of the country, who have the world to the result of the American policy of non-interference, of unrestricted trade."

"Individuals above all others, from time to time, are not cut off with the same facility as the living practical control of the whole system of Congress, or in a combination of five men."

"In this connection, we must say that the last old lady who inquired at the drug store a few days ago for "croup quills," will please apply to some of our rising correspondents."
